

Watercolor with Susan Badger

Upcoming Plein Air Watercolor Classes through the Kalamazoo Institute of Arts

Susan Badger is a watercolor painter working plein air (outdoors) as well as in the studio. She is a graduate of WMU in painting, and has additionally studied with a numerous artists over the years.

Susan has been teaching watercolor at the Kalamazoo Institute of Arts for approximately nine years. In addition to her courses held in the classroom, she occasionally offers plein air classes.

Susan is actively painting, and will be having a show of her work at the Epic Center during the month of May. The opening reception will be May 6th, which is on the art hop.

WATERCOLOR AND MORE IN THE OUTDOORS (942)

INSTRUCTOR: Susan Badger

WHEN: Wednesdays, May 4 - 18

TIME: Noon - 3 pm / 3 weeks

COST: Members: $65, Non-Members: $85

Venturing out from the classroom, students will work en plein-air (outdoors!). We'll create loose and expressive studies at a variety of local sites, learning to focus on composition and yet freely interpret our subjects. Instruction and demonstrations will be offered, with special emphasis on exploring ways to take advantage of the unique properties of watercolor such as mingling color mixtures, and washes with both hard and soft edges. Although the emphasis of this class will be on watercolor, students may choose to work in a variety of media including watercolor, watercolor pencils, colored pencils, etc. E-mail questions to Susan at badgerburrow@aol.com.
